Each group in the studio has its own uniform that we order at the beginning of the year. The students must appear to all classes in the group dress, clean and spotless, with their hair tied in a bun (a ponytail for the pre-ballet and beginners), in ballet shoes, and without any jewelry.

Behavior code:

In general, ballet classes require high discipline from student. The students learn to obey the teacher and perform the exercises as required of them, to treat other students appropriately, and to obey the rules of the studio. These include:

- Arrive in time to the studio, usually 15 minutes before the class begins to dress and warm up.
 - Do not eat or drink soft drinks inside the studio.
 - Takeoff walking shoes before stepping on the dance floor.
 - Keep the studio and dressing room clean.
 - Behave in a respectful way to others.
 - Do not take pictures of other students.
- A student who violates the rules of conduct in the studio may be expelled from the classes without a monetary compensation.

End of Year Show:

- At the end of each school year, the Center for Dance Arts conducts a recital in front of live audience where our students present dance pieces they learned during the year. Participation in the show is not an automatic right, but depends on a number of conditions:
- The students prepared for the performance and participated in rehearsals as determined by the artistic director.

- The students paid a participation fee (purchase of a minimum of tickets: 4 for pre-ballet and beginners, 5 for intermediates, and 6 for the advanced group).
- Students who did not meet these conditions will not be allowed to appear in the show without any monetary credit.
- We want to emphasize that participation in the show is not mandatory and students who prefer not to perform will participate in all classes but can be excused from the show.
